

Diversity

Why should you care so much?
We're all different, so what does it matter?
Different but the same, we're all in disarray
Holding onto things that happened in the past
We need to let things go at last
If we don't remember the mistakes of the past
We're doomed to repeat all the things that didn't last History happened, and we can't change it
The only thing we can do is learn from it
Accept it and understand it
Too many things burnt down from the fire
Of people saying, "It doesn't matter"
Think of what you say before it's too late
We can't let lives be destroyed by the hate
Don't redo things that've been done
You'll find life is better when we stand up all for one